2. When personnel numbers allow, the Patrol Division may also have up to two power shifts to supplement the day and night watches.
3. Officers assigned to the Patrol Division will normally work seven 12-hour shifts in a two-week pay period. Day watch will begin at 0600 and end at 1800, and the night watch will begin at 1800 and end at 0600.
4. Absent exigent circumstances or supervisory direction to the contrary, officers assigned to a watch team should report to the station ready for work not later than the start of their designated watch.
5. During a typical pay period and absent extraordinary circumstances, officers working a regular patrol watch will have a week during the two-week pay period where they are off Sunday, Wednesday, and Thursday, and the other week of the pay period they will be off Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday. The two-day watch teams will alternate days off, as will the two-night watch teams (LE 41.1.1f).
6. The Operations Commander will assign officers to a patrol watch team. The Operations Commander will consider the officer's requests for assignment and the officer's non-departmental responsibilities; however, consideration of the Department's needs will be of the utmost importance when making assignments (LE 41.1.1b).
7. The Operations Commander will ensure that senior and junior officers will be divided reasonably among the watch teams so that knowledgeable and experienced officers will be available at any time during the watch.
8. On the first Monday of January, May, and September, patrol teams will rotate patrol watches, with day watch teams going to night watch, and vice-versa (LE 41.1.1c).
