BELOIT HISTORY

The beautiful and historic City of Beloit is located along Interstate Highway 39/90, just north of the Wisconsin border. The City Center is located along the Rock River. The City is conveniently located with the City of Chicago to the southeast along I-90 and the City of Madison, Wisconsin, to the north. Beloit is directly connected to Milwaukee via Interstate Highway 43, which merges with I-39/90 in Beloit, forming a strategic transportation network in the nation's heartland.

At the beginning of the 1800s, several hundred Native Americans of the Ho-Chunk Nation (Winnebago) lived in a village called Ke-chunk-nee-shun-nuk-ra, or the Turtle, at the confluence of the Rock River and the Turtle Creek. The first known white man to settle in Rock County alongside the Ho-Chunk was Joseph Thiebault, a French trapper who came to the area in the 1820s to trade with the tribe. Thiebault's cabin was located just north of the state line, near the site where Beloit City Hall now stands.

Caleb Blodgett, another of the earliest pioneers and merchants, dubbed this place New Albany, but a citizen committee soon renamed it. Although the exact history remains disputed, it seems that the name Beloit was coined from a French word, Balotte, to mean "handsome ground"; the spelling was then fashioned after Detroit, which the community saw as a great symbol of trade and growth.

The first African-Americans living in Beloit were Emmanuel Craig, a coachman, and his family. Arriving in the mid-1830s, the Craigs were among those who witnessed the formation of the township government in 1842 and the founding of Beloit College in 1846, two years before Wisconsin achieved statehood.

Beloit was founded in 1836, incorporated as a village February 24, 1846, and officially incorporated as a city by the State of Wisconsin on March 31, 1856. The citizens adopted a Council-Manager form of government in 1929.

Over one hundred and fifty years after incorporation, the City of Beloit covers approximately 17 square miles. It is home to 36,376 residents, 937 businesses, including 123 manufacturers and 250 retail stores, several corporate headquarters, a minor league baseball team, several museums, and an internationally acclaimed college that bears the community's name.

The city is also a center for the arts and includes many cultural assets. The Wright Museum of Art and the internationally acclaimed Logan Museum of Anthropology are located on the Beloit College campus. The City's Historical Society and the Hanchett-Bartlett Homestead celebrate the City's proud heritage. Many beautiful pieces of public art adorn the riverfront, downtown, and the Beloit College Campus. The city shares a world class symphony orchestra with its neighbors in Janesville and has numerous special arts events and activities each year.

One of the most ethnically diverse communities in the Midwest, Beloit's population is 58% Caucasian, 14% African-American, 22% Hispanic/Latino, 1% Asian-American, with another 5% from other ethnic or racial backgrounds.

As with many other older, grey-metal industrial cities, Beloit underwent significant economic distress during the 1970s and 80s. By 1990, civic leadership, including the chief executive officers of many resident corporations, partnered with leaders of key financial institutions and the College to form Beloit 2000 (now called Beloit 200), a visionary organization that spearheaded the City Center redevelopment. Beloit 200, working in partnership with the City, has transformed Beloit's Rock River frontage into a world class open space and recreation complex, heavily utilized throughout the year. Downtown renovations and continuing economic redevelopment are the hallmarks of the City's continuing rebirth. While new businesses relocate to Beloit and existing corporations expand and grow, the community continues to celebrate its rich heritage and cultural diversity. The local government, business leaders, and concerned residents are all working together to continue the urban renaissance which has transformed Beloit.

CITY COMMITTEE INFORMATION

MUNICIPAL ADVISORY (CITY) COMMITTEES

Over 120 citizens of Beloit volunteer to serve on municipal advisory committees in an effort to make the community an even better place to live. The City of Beloit proudly acknowledges the time and service to the community that many have contributed through their participation on municipal advisory committees.

Meetings are open to the public but note that they may be cancelled or rescheduled. All meeting agendas are published and posted at least 24 hours prior to the meeting in accordance with Wisconsin's open meetings laws.

Applications for the Municipal Advisory Committees are available from the City Clerk-Treasurer's Office, 608-364-6682, or may be downloaded from the City's Website at beloitwi.gov

APPOINTMENT PROCESS

Nominees for appointment in municipal advisory committees are selected by the Appointment Review Committee based on completed applications for appointment. Nominations are then submitted to the full City Council for confirmation.

Persons interested in applying for appointment to municipal advisory committees should contact the City Clerk-Treasurer's Office for an application and further information.

Please note that, in some instances, City ordinances require the appointment of certain officeholders or persons meeting other statutorily specified criteria.

The Beloit City Council and city administration greatly appreciate the many hours of hard work and thoughtful advice citizens have volunteered through municipal advisory committees. Beloit continues to be a great community because of the many volunteers who generously work together with City Councilors and staff.
