"Now, more than ever, Emory Police is ready to lead the way on a national level. We all know that more unites us than divides us. In times of crisis, the wise build bridges, while the foolish build barriers. We must find a way to look after one another."

*'Assisting Other Law Enforcement' table: Midtown numbers are primarily attributed to people presenting at Emory's emergency department with injuries suffered in other jurisdictions. EPD policy involves determining where the injury occurred and notifying the appropriate agency.

*Using hands to subdue an individual involves taking someone into custody; using hands to restrain involves stopping an individual from committing a specific action.

USE OF FORCE INCIDENT RECAP: ATLANTA CAMPUS

- At about 10:30 a.m., on April 13, a sergeant used his personal firearm to dispatch a rabid racoon at his home after trying unsuccessful attempts to resolve the issue through DeKalb County Animal Control.
- At about 11 p.m., April 23, officers used hand-restraint techniques to restrain a campus visitor who became violent, expressed a desire to harm himself, and assaulted his boyfriend, an Emory student, on Eagle Row. The visitor was eventually transported for medical treatment and an involuntary mental health evaluation.
- At about 7:40 a.m., on April 25, EPD officers, assisted by Atlanta Police and Georgia State Patrol, made 28 arrests at the Quadrangle. In relation to those arrests, eight use-of-force reports were completed.
 - One report documents a 57-year-old white female being taken to the ground by hand techniques after having struck a Georgia State Patrol officer who was trying to make an arrest.
 - Seven reports document two white males, one Black male, two Black females, one Asian female, and one male of unspecified race, being restrained by hand techniques to prevent their escape while officers were trying to arrest them.
- At about 3:35 p.m. on April 28, officers at the Quadrangle used hand techniques to pick up a non-compliant white male subject from the ground after he refused to get up on his own. This subject was ultimately arrested for possession of a weapon in a school safety zone, obstruction of law enforcement officers, and criminal trespass.
- Between 7 and 11:30 p.m., on April 25, officers used hand techniques to defend themselves from a crowd that tried to push them into the exterior wall of the School of Theology. The crowd pressed against the officers using wooden placards with exposed nails pointed at the officers, and some members of the crowd tried to sweep the officers' legs out from under them. The crowd eventually withdrew after Georgia State Patrol officers arrived and deployed chemical agents to disperse them.
