Subject: Code of Ethics for all	l Personnel
New ⊠Amends ☐ Rescinds ☑ Reviewed 05-31-17  General Order 1-4 Dated: 1-6-2000		Reevaluation:  1 yr. 18 months N/A
Accreditation Standards: 1.1.2	By Authority Of:  Ouglas W. Keen, Chief of Police	Total Pages: 3

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this General Order is to state those principles that the Department holds as necessary for all members, and to provide the members of the Department with a written code that shall serve as a guide for personal behavior, both on and off duty.

POLICY:

The Canons of Police Ethics, as adopted by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, are embraced as fulfilling and establishing a written code of personal conduct for the members of the Department.

It is the policy of the Department to conduct professional motor vehicle stops and criminal code enforcement measures in strict compliance with the constitutional rights of citizens, and only under the authority granted to law enforcement officers by law. Motor vehicle stops and criminal code enforcement measures shall not be conducted solely on the basis of race, ethnicity, sex, economic status, dress or appearance, or upon other similar bases.

DISCUSSION:

A "Canon," as used in this directive, refers to a criterion that forms a body of principles or standards for attitude, actions, or behavior.

PROCEDURE:

I. Canons of Police Ethics

- A. Article 1. Primary Responsibility of Job:
  - The primary responsibility of the police service is the protection of the people of the United States through the upholding of their laws; chief among these is the Constitution of the United States and its amendments. The law enforcement officer always represents the whole of the community and its legally expressed will and is never the arm of any political party or clique.
- B. Article 2. Limitations of Authority:
  - 1. The first duty of a law enforcement officer, as upholder of the law, is to know its bounds upon him in enforcing it. Because he represents the legal will of the community, be it local, state or federal, he must be aware of the limitations and proscriptions which the people, through law, have placed upon him.
  - 2. He must recognize the genius of the American system of government that gives to no person, group of persons, or institution, absolute power, and he must ensure that he, as a prime defender of that system, does not pervert its character.
- C. Article 3. Duty to be Familiar with the Law and with Responsibilities of Self and other Public Officials:
  - 1. The law enforcement officer shall assiduously apply himself to the study of the principles of the laws which he is sworn to uphold. He makes certain of his responsibilities in the particulars of his enforcement, seeking aid from his superiors in matters of technicality or principle when these are not clear to him; he will make special effort to fully understand his relationship to other public officials; including other law enforcement agencies, particularly on matters of jurisdiction, both geographically and substantively.

- D. Article 4. Utilization of Proper Means to Gain Proper Ends:
  - 1. The law enforcement officer shall be mindful of his responsibility to pay strict heed to the selections of means in discharging the duties of his office. Violations of law or disregard for public safety and property on the part of an officer are intrinsically wrong; they are self-defeating in that they instill in the public mind a like disposition. The employment of illegal means, no matter how worthy the end, is certain to encourage disrespect for the law and its officers. If the law is to be honored, it must first be honored by those who enforce it.
- E. Article 5. Cooperation with Public Officials in the Discharge of His Authorized Duties:
  - 1. The law enforcement officer shall cooperate fully with other public officials in the discharge of authorized duties, regardless of party affiliation or personal prejudice. He shall be meticulous, however, in assuring himself of the propriety under law, of such actions and shall guard against the use of his office or person, whether knowingly or unknowingly, in any improper or illegal action. In any situation open to question, he shall seek authority from his superior officer, giving him a full report of the proposed service or action.
- F. Article 6. Private Conduct:
  - 1. The law enforcement officer shall be mindful of his special identification by the public as an upholder of the law. Laxity of conduct or manner in private life, expressing either disrespect for the law or seeking to gain special privilege, cannot be reflected upon the police officer and the police service. The community and the service require that the law enforcement officer lead the life of a decent and honorable person. Following the career of a police officer gives no person special perquisites. It does give the satisfaction and pride of following and furthering an unbroken tradition of safeguarding the American republic. The officer who reflects upon this tradition will not degrade it. Rather, he will so conduct his private life so that the public will regard him as an example of stability, fidelity, and morality.
- G. Article 7. Conduct Toward the Public:
  - 1. The law enforcement officer, mindful of his responsibility to the whole community, shall deal with individuals of the community in a manner calculated to instill respect for its laws and its police service. The law enforcement officer shall conduct his official life in a manner such as will inspire confidence and trust. Thus, he will be neither overbearing nor subservient, as no individual citizen has an obligation to stand in awe of him nor a right to command him. The officer gives service where he can, and requires compliance with the law. He does neither from personal preference or prejudice, but rather as a duly appointed officer of the law discharging his sworn obligation.
- H. Article 8. Conduct in Arresting and Dealing with Law Violators:
  - 1. The law enforcement officer shall use his powers of arrest strictly in accordance with the law and with due regard to the rights of the citizen concerned. His office gives him no right to prosecute the violator or to mete out punishment for the offense. He shall at all times have a clear appreciation of his responsibilities and limitations regarding detention of the violator; he shall conduct himself in such a manner as will minimize the possibility of having to use force. To this end, he shall cultivate a dedication to the service of the people and the equitable upholding of their laws whether in the handling of law violators or in dealing with the law-abiding.
- I. Article 9. Gifts and Favors:
  - 1. The law enforcement officer, representing government, bears the heavy responsibility of maintaining, in his own conduct, the honor and integrity of all government institutions. He shall, therefore, guard against placing himself in a position in which any person can expect special consideration or in which the public can reasonably assume that special consideration is being given. Thus, he should be firm in refusing gifts, favors, or gratuities, large or small, which can, in the public mind, be interpreted as capable of influencing his judgment in the discharge of his duties.

J. Article 10. Presentation of Evidence:

- 1. The law enforcement officer shall be concerned equally in the prosecution of the wrong doer and the defense of the innocent. He shall ascertain what constitutes evidence and shall present such evidence impartially and without malice. In so doing, he will ignore social, political, and all other distinctions among the persons involved, strengthening the tradition of the reliability and integrity of an officer's word.
- 2. The law enforcement officer shall take special pains to increase his perception and skill of observation, mindful that in many situations, his is the sole impartial testimony to the facts of a case
- K. Article 11. Attitude toward Profession:
  - 1. The law enforcement officer shall regard the discharge of his duties as a public trust and recognize his responsibility as a public servant. By diligent study and sincere attention to self-improvement, he shall strive to make the best possible application of science to the solution of crime and, in the field of human relationships, strive for effective leadership and public influence in matters affecting public safety. He shall appreciate the importance and responsibility of his office, and hold police work to be an honorable profession rendering valuable service to his community and his country.
