C. Joint Powers Agreements Originating Outside DPS

- 1. On occasion, JPAs will be originated by parties outside DPS. These parties will want DPS to become a party to the JPA. In such cases, the following steps should be observed.
- 2. If the JPA entails the payment of funds by DPS or the receipt of funds by DPS, the Division whose budget will be affected by the funds must take ownership of the JPA at this end and will follow the process as outlined in 5.0.B. The Agreement Originator shall make it known to the outside party that DPS prefers to use its own template and any document that the other entity sends us will be transferred to our template if at all possible. Further, the Agreement Originator should let the other party know that documents should not be sent to DPS already signed by the other party. This will only cause further impediments to processing of the documents, as changes/corrections might need to be made.

3. If the JPA involves no funds whatsoever, the following procedure should be followed:
 - a. The document should be routed to the Contract Specialist in the General Services Bureau to keep track of the JPA as the Central Repository for such documents. A Contract Request Form must accompany the document signed by the appropriate division director and by the Budget and Planning Bureau (this signature acknowledges the Bureau's awareness of the agreement despite there being no funds involved).
 - b. The Contract Specialist will route the document to the General Services Bureau Chief who will sign the Contract Request Form in the appropriate signature block and then return to the Contract Specialist for forwarding to the OLA for review.
 - c. OLA will make a decision regarding the document's legal status. If OLA disapproves, the JPA is returned to the Agreement Originator to arrange for the changes with the outside Agency.
 - d. If OLA approves of the document, they will sign the proper signature block on the Contract Request Form and the appropriate signature block on the documents themselves if there is one. If there is not one on the documents themselves, OLA will add one in order to sign. NOTE: the Secretary will not sign any agreement that does not have a signature from OLA attesting to the document's legal sufficiency under state laws and regulations. OLA will then return the documents to the Contract Specialist who will route the documents to the Program Deputy Secretary.
 - e. The Program Deputy Secretary will review the document and make a decision whether or not the obligations outlined in the document comport with the mission and goals of the Agency. If the Program Deputy Secretary disapproves the document, then the JPA is returned to the Agreement Originator to make the corrections/changes/etc., with the outside Agency or the document may be rejected completely.
 - f. If the Program Deputy Secretary approves the document, then the Deputy Secretary will return the document to the Contract Specialist who will forward it to the Deputy Secretary for Administration.
 - g. The Deputy Secretary for Administration will review the document and make a decision whether or not the obligations outlined in the document comport with the mission and goals of the Agency. If the Deputy Secretary for Administration disapproves the document, then the JPA is returned to the Agreement Originator to make the corrections/changes/etc., with the outside Agency or the document may be rejected completely.
 - h. If the Deputy Secretary for Administration approves the document, then the Deputy Secretary for Administration will forward the document to the Secretary of the Agency.
