A. Arrest Procedures

1. The responding officer shall make every attempt to determine who the predominant aggressor is, based on the totality of the circumstances. Officers should also take into consideration:
 - a. The party posing the most serious threat;
 - b. The party possessing the most ability and inclination to inflict physical injury;
 - c. Which party has the greatest need for protection and/or safety;
 - d. The severity of the injuries inflicted and if some or all are self-inflicted;

2. If the officer is unable to identify a predominant aggressor, and it appears that the parties have been involved in mutual combat, the officer shall consult their supervisor before filing assault charges against all parties. In most instances, a predominant aggressor can be established, and dual assault charges should not be filed.
3. Officers shall arrest those persons who have been identified as committing acts of violence against a family or household member when the arrest can be supported by the complaint of the victim and/or other circumstances or evidence that an act of violence has occurred.
4. In the event that the aggressor has left the scene, the investigating officer shall obtain the warrant(s) and make arrangements to have the warrants served as soon as possible.
5. Types of offenses for which an officer shall arrest/obtain warrants include, but are not limited to:

6. The officer will include in the IBR how they identified the suspect as the primary physical aggressor. This may include:
 - a. The severity of the injuries inflicted on all parties and whether the injuries were offensive or defensive;
 - b. A history of violence, calls for service and/or assault convictions;
 - c. Evidence that any of the parties acted in self-defense;
 - d. Evidence from persons involved in, or witnessing the incident;
 - e. The relative size, bulk and strength of the parties;
 - f. Current or previous protective orders filed against any of the parties;

 9. When making an arrest for assault and battery against a family or household member, the responding officer shall check for prior convictions of assault against the offender.
 - a. If the domestic assault does not involve a felony, the aggressor shall be charged with assault and battery against a family or household member (Class 1 misdemeanor).
 - b. If the aggressor has been convicted of assault and battery against a family or household member twice within the past twenty years, and the assaults occurred on different dates, the aggressor shall be charged with a Class 6 felony unless the offense warrants a Class 5 or higher felony charge (such as maiming).
- B. Domestic Violence Reporting Requirements [82.2.1(a,b)]
1. The investigating officer shall prepare an IBR, complete the L.A.P Screening Form (Form-201) and complete an Arrest Report (RMS) if an arrest is made.

NOTE: The Commonwealth's Attorney will not assist the prosecution of all other misdemeanor cases involving family or household members, and the investigating officer will handle case prosecution.

 4. If photographs or witness statements are obtained in addition to the IBR, they should be submitted to the prosecuting attorney. The investigating officer shall advise the victim to contact him if the victim has follow-up photographs available.

 - b. Ask all the questions in the order in which they are listed on Form-201 L.A.P. Screening Form.
 - c. The LAP Screening Form responses help determine the risk level of the victim and the potential for danger.
 - d. Complete the form and email it to the Domestic Violence Team.

 - 2) That they would like to call the Domestic Violence Hotline, using the dedicated police line on Form-201, and have the victim speak with an advocate.

If an arrest is not made and there is probable cause to believe that a danger of acts of family abuse exists by the aggressor, the officer shall assert under oath to any judge or magistrate, the evidence and circumstances to petition for an emergency protective order.
2. Stalking Cases: (§19.2-152.8\(B\) of the Code of Virginia) An emergency protective order will be issued when a law enforcement officer or petitioner asserts under oath that the victim has been, or is being subjected to an act of violence, force, or threat, and the judge or magistrate finds:

4. When a written or verbal or emergency protective order is issued by the judge/magistrate, the order shall:

 - b. If a warrant has been issued in association with the emergency protective order, the order will be attached to the warrant and will remain with the warrant for service.
 - c. In domestic violence cases, if a warrant has not been issued, the emergency order will still be served.
 - d. If the warrant and/or emergency protective order are not immediately served, they will be forwarded to the VCIN Unit for later service.

 - 2) The original emergency protective order, whether served or not served, will be sent to the appropriate court within five business days of the issuance date of the order.

B. Preliminary Protective Order for Spousal Abuse

The responding officer will:

1. Advise the alleged victim to contact the 7th District Court Services Unit - Intake Office to arrange for a preliminary protective order. Convey this information to the alleged victim when an arrest is made or when probable cause necessary for an arrest cannot be established.
