* Louisiana Code of Criminal Procedure Art. 207  requires that when an arrest occurs in a parish other than the one in which the alleged offense was committed, the person arrested shall be booked and imprisoned in the parish where he was arrested until he gives bail or is transferred to the parish where the offense is alleged to have been committed. A person awaiting transfer shall not be detained in custody in the parish of his arrest for a period longer than ten days. For IV-D purposes, the parish of offense is the parish where the order was established.
